ORDER DENYING MOTION FOR CLASS CERTIFICATION WITH LEAVE TO RENEW

15
16 BEFORE THE COURT is Plaintiffs' Motion for Class Certification. ECF
17 No. 27. This motion was heard with oral argument on May 18, 2017. Kirk D.
18 Miller appeared on behalf of the Plaintiffs. J. Gregory Lockwood appeared on 19 behalf of Defendant Associated Credit Services, Inc. Molly M. Moffett and Kevin 20 J. Curtis appeared on behalf of Defendants Paul J. Wasson and Monica Wasson.

1 The Court has reviewed the briefing and supplemental authority, the record and 2 files herein, and is fully informed.

3 BACKGROUND

4 A. Procedural History

5 On April 1, 2016, Plaintiff Myron Hargreaves filed a putative class action 6 against Defendant Associated Credit Services, Inc. (“Associated”) asserting 7 violations of the Fair Debt Collection Practices Act (“FDCPA”), 15 U.S.C. § 1692 8 et seq.; the Washington Consumer Protection Act (“WCPA”), RCW § 19.86.010 et 9 seq.; and the Washington Collection Agency Act (“WCAA”), RCW § 19.16.100.
10 See ECF No. 1.

11 On November 16, 2016, Plaintiff, along with Cortney Halvorsen and Bonnie 12 Freeman (collectively, “Plaintiffs”), filed a First Amended Complaint adding 13 Defendants Paul J. Wasson and Jane Doe Wasson (now known as Monica 14 Wasson). ECF No. 14. Plaintiffs allege that judgment creditor, Associated, and its 15 attorney, Defendant Paul J. Wasson (“Wasson”), misrepresented information in 16 writs of garnishment, which allowed Defendants to unlawfully garnish Plaintiffs’ 17 exempt property in violation of the FDCPA. ECF No. 14 at ¶ 7.13. Plaintiffs 18 contend that Defendants’ conduct also violates the WCAA and the WCPA. Id. at 19 18. Plaintiffs assert that a violation of the provisions of the FDCPA and the 20 WCAA are per se violations of the WCPA. ECF Nos. 14 at ¶ 8.20; 38 at 10.

1 On November 18, 2016, the Court entered a Jury Trial Scheduling Order, 2 commencing discovery and setting the deadline for moving for class certification 3 no later than April 10, 2017. ECF No. 16 at 2. Defendants Paul J. Wasson and 4 Monica Wasson (collectively, “Wasson Defendants”) filed their Answer to the 5 First Amended Complaint on February 22, 2017¹, and Defendant Associated filed 6 its Answer on March 3, 2017. ECF Nos. 23, 24. Plaintiffs then moved to extend 7 the class certification deadline by sixty (60) days. ECF Nos. 26 - 27. On April 7, 8 2017, the Court denied Plaintiffs’ request. ECF No. 31. The discovery cut-off in 9 this action is October 10, 2017; Plaintiffs stated at oral argument that no discovery 10 has occurred.

11 B. Class Certification

12 Plaintiffs move to certify a class and assert that class certification is 13 appropriate for all claims stemming from Defendant Associated’s and Defendant 14 Wassons’ alleged conduct in violation of the FDCPA and the WCPA by: (1) 15 falsely asserting that judgment debtor assets are not exempt; (2) unlawfully 16 garnishing property and collecting fees based on falsely certified writ applications; 17 (3) making false, deceptive, and misleading statements to consumers about 18

19 ¹ The Clerk will be directed to amend the docket to reflect Monica Wasson’s 20 true name, rather than Jane Doe Wasson.

1 exemption rights; and (4) unlawfully profiting to the detriment of putative class 2 members. ECF No. 32 at 4.

3 1. Proposed Class Definition

4 Plaintiffs proposed in their briefing and at oral argument that the Court 5 certify the following classes and subclasses:

6 CLASS A (“FDCPA Class”): All individuals who were (1) judgment
7 debtors in a Washington action filed by Defendant Associated to collect unpaid 8 consumer debt; (2) subject to an application for a writ of garnishment signed by 9 Defendant Wasson (as a representative of Defendant Associated), in which he 10 certified that Defendant Associated had reason to believe that the property being 11 garnished was not exempt; (3) where the claims arose from Defendant
12 Associated’s conduct that occurred between April 1, 2015 to April 1, 2016; and (4)
13 where, after issuing a writ of garnishment, the class member received a “Notice of 14 Garnishment and Your Rights” form from Defendant Associated stating 15 substantially in part:

16 OTHER EXEMPTIONS: If the garnishee holds other property
17 of yours, some or all of it may be exempt under RCW 6.15.010,
18 a Washington statute that exempts up to five hundred dollars
19 ($500) of property of your choice (including up to two hundred 20 dollars ($200) in cash or any bank account) and certain other property such as household furnishings, tools of the trade, any motor vehicle (all limited by differing dollar values).

1 A.1 (“FDCPA Subclass”): All individuals in Class A who also had exempt
2 property garnished by Defendants.

3 CLASS B (“WCPA Class”): All individuals, businesses, or corporations 4 who were (1) judgment debtors in a Washington action filed by Defendant 5 Associated; (2) subject to an application for a writ of garnishment signed by 6 Defendant Wasson (as a representative of Defendant Associated), in which he 7 certified that Defendant Associated had reason to believe that the property being 8 garnished was not exempt; (3) where the claims arose from Defendant
9 Associated’s conduct that occurred between April 1, 2012 to April 1, 2016; and (4)
10 where, after issuing a writ of garnishment, the class member received a “Notice of 11 Garnishment and Your Rights” form from Defendant Associated stating 12 substantially in part:

13 OTHER EXEMPTIONS: If the garnishee holds other property
14 of yours, some or all of it may be exempt under RCW 6.15.010,
15 a Washington statute that exempts up to five hundred dollars
16 ($500) of property of your choice (including up to two hundred dollars ($200) in cash or any bank account) and certain other
property such as household furnishings, tools of the trade, any
motor vehicle (all limited by differing dollar values).

17 B.1 (“WCPA Subclass”): All individuals, businesses, or corporations in 18 Class B who also had exempt property garnished by Defendants.

19 See ECF No. 32 at 4-5; 38 at 6-7.

1 Defendant Associated opposes class certification because the putative class 2 lacks proof to substantiate the numerosity requirement, because state-approved 3 forms cannot form a basis for class certification, and because Plaintiffs' debts are 4 not subject to the FDCPA. ECF No. 34 at 2-8. The Wasson Defendants also 5 oppose class certification on the grounds that some of the putative class members 6 lack standing; the class is not sufficiently ascertainable, overly broad, and 7 constitutes an improper "fail-safe" class; and some of the claims are time-barred 8 and beyond the scope of the FDCPA and WCPA. See ECF No. 36. Moreover, the 9 Wasson Defendants argue that numerous individualized issues predominate over 10 any common issues and Plaintiffs fail to satisfy the superiority requirement. Id.

11 For the reasons discussed below, the Court denies class certification at this 12 time.

13 FACTS

14 The material facts are disputed, but the Court must accept as true the 15 substantive allegations of the class claim. See Blackie v. Barrack, 524 F.2d 891, 16 901 n.17 (9th Cir. 1975).

17 Plaintiffs represent a putative class consisting of similarly situated 18 Washington judgment debtors who were subject to unlawful property garnishment 19 by a collection agency, Defendant Associated, through its attorney, Defendant 20 Wasson. ECF No. 14 at 2. All available funds were garnished from Plaintiffs'

1 respective bank accounts to repay consumer debts, pursuant to a writ of 2 garnishment filed by Defendant Associated. See id. at 4-14. Defendant Wasson
3 executed declarations on behalf of Associated in support of each writ application 4 and asserted that Associated had “reason to believe” that Plaintiffs’ property “was 5 not exempt under Washington or federal law.” Id. at 2. Plaintiffs contend that 6 Defendant Wasson is the equivalent of a “robo-signer” who signs numerous writ 7 applications without any reason to believe the veracity of the statements he makes.
8 Id. at ¶¶ 4.27-4.28, 7.9, 7.11. Defendants sent notices of exemption rights to 9 Plaintiffs post-garnishment that contained materially false and misleading 10 information concerning Plaintiffs’ respective cash exemption rights. Id. at ¶¶ 4.30, 11 5.12, 6.19-6.20. After Plaintiffs Cortney Halvorsen and Bonnie Freeman 12 confronted Defendants in response to the erroneous exemption claim notice, 13 Defendants released their respective writs of garnishment and paid back some or 14 all of the garnished money. Id. at ¶¶ 5.14, 6.22.

15 Plaintiffs now move to certify the putative class action with respect to the 16 FDCPA and WCPA claims against Defendants, as a result of Defendants’ unfair 17 and deceptive practices. ECF No. 32; see also ECF No. 14 at 2.

18 DISCUSSION

19 “District courts have broad discretion to control the class certification 20 process, and ‘[w]hether or not discovery will be permitted . . . lies within the sound

1 discretion of the trial court.” Vinole v. Countrywide Home Loans, Inc., 571 F.3d
2 935, 942 (9th Cir. 2009) (quoting Kamm v. Cal. City Dev. Co., 509 F.2d 205, 209 3 (9th Cir. 1975). Indeed, “[t]he propriety of a class action cannot be determined in 4 some cases without discovery.” Kamm, 509 F.2d at 210.

5 Certification of a class action lawsuit is governed by Rule 23 of the Federal 6 Rules of Civil Procedure. Pursuant to Rule 23(a), the party seeking class 7 certification must demonstrate that “(1) the class is so numerous that joinder of all 8 members is impracticable; (2) there are questions of law or fact common to the 9 class; (3) the claims or defenses of the representative parties are typical of the 10 claims or defenses of the class; and (4) the representative parties will fairly and 11 adequately protect the interests of the class.” Fed. R. Civ. P. 23(a).

12 Provided that proposed class satisfies the above criteria, courts must further 13 determine whether certification is appropriate under Rule 23(b). Where a party 14 seeks certification of a so-called “damages class” under Rule 23(b)(3), as here, he 15 or she must demonstrate that (1) “questions of law or fact common to class 16 members predominate over any questions affecting only individual members;” and 17 (2) “a class action is superior to other available methods for fairly and efficiently 18 adjudicating the controversy.” Fed. R. Civ. P. 23(b)(3). As the party moving for 19 certification, the plaintiff bears the burden of establishing that the foregoing 20

1 requirements have been satisfied. Mazza v. Am. Honda Motor Co., Inc., 666 F.3d
2 581, 588 (9th Cir. 2012).

3 A court presented with a class certification motion must perform a “rigorous 4 analysis” to determine whether each of these prerequisites has been satisfied. Gen.
5 Tel. Co. v. Falcon, 457 U.S. 147, 161 (1982). “Frequently that ‘rigorous analysis’ 6 will entail some overlap with the merits of the plaintiff’s underlying claim.” Wal- 7 Mart Stores, Inc. v. Dukes, 564 U.S. 338, 351 (2011); see also Ellis v. Costco
8 Wholesale Corp., 657 F.3d 970, 981 (9th Cir. 2011) (emphasizing that a district 9 court “must” consider the merits of a plaintiff’s claim to the extent that they 10 overlap with the prerequisites for class certification under Rule 23(a)). That is, 11 “[a] party seeking class certification must affirmatively demonstrate his 12 compliance with the Rule—that is, he must be prepared to prove that there are in 13 fact sufficiently numerous parties, common questions of law or fact, etc.” Wal- 14 Mart, 564 U.S. at 350.

15 Here, Plaintiffs have moved to certify a class pursuing two separate claims 16 for statutory damages: (1) violation of the FDCPA; and (2) violation of the 17 Washington Consumer Protection Act. ECF No. 32 at 4.

18 A. Rule 23(a) Prerequisites

19 1. Numerosity

20 Rule 23(a)(1) provides that a proposed class must be “so numerous that

1 joinder of all members is impracticable.” Fed. R. Civ. P. 23(a)(1). “Whether 2 joinder would be impracticable depends on the facts and circumstances of each 3 case and does not, as a matter of law, require any specific minimum number of 4 class members.” Smith v. Univ. of Wash. Law Sch., 2 F. Supp. 2d 1324, 1340
5 (W.D. Wash. 1998). In general, however, a class consisting of 40 or more 6 members is presumed to be sufficiently numerous. In re Washington Mut.
7 Mortgage-Backed Secs. Litig., 276 F.R.D. 658, 665 (W.D. Wash. 2011).
8 Conversely, the Supreme Court has indicated that a class of 15 “would be too small 9 to meet the numerosity requirement.” Gen. Tel. Co. of the Nw., Inc. v. EEOC, 446 10 U.S. 318, 330 (1980).

11 Here, Plaintiffs suggest that the proposed class consists of at least 100 12 Washington residents. ECF Nos. 32 at 10; 14 at ¶ 8.16. Plaintiffs also speculate 13 that because Defendants utilize standardized forms, it “makes it more likely that 14 thousands or ten-of-thousands” of residents have been impacted. ECF No. 32 at 15 10. Defendants dispute the size of the proposed class and challenge Plaintiffs’ 16 ability to satisfy the numerosity requirement. ECF Nos. 34 at 2; 36 at 16-17.
17 Defendant Associated argues that it has only admitted to being “involved in at least 18 100 garnishments since its incorporation” over the past twenty years. See ECF 19 Nos. 34 at 2; 24 at ¶ 8.16. The Wasson Defendants argue that the class consists of 20 zero members because no applications were falsely certified or state language

1 contained as part of Plaintiffs’ class definition. See ECF No. 36 at 16. The 2 Wasson Defendants also argue that if based on Plaintiffs’ proposed class 3 definition, the class is overly broad because not all debtors have standing or cash 4 exemption rights. Id. at 17. In addition, not all debtors had exempt property 5 garnished, and some claims may be barred by the statute of limitations. Id.

6 The Court acknowledges that an extensive evidentiary showing is not 7 required at this stage, but the Court must—in the very least—be able to formulate a 8 reasonable judgment. See Blackie, 524 F.2d at 901, n.17 (stating that “[w]hile the 9 court may not put the plaintiff to preliminary proof of his claim, it does require 10 sufficient information to form a reasonable judgment.”). Mere conjecture as to the 11 number of members that fit within Plaintiffs’ proposed class and subclass 12 definition does not satisfy the Rule. See Fed. R. Civ. P. 23(a)(1).

13 Here, despite that the parties have had nearly six months to engage in 14 discovery, Plaintiffs have offered nothing more than mere guesswork as to the 15 estimated class size. Plaintiffs direct the Court to “the Declaration of Kirk D.
16 Miller and all the documents filed in this action,” but these materials add no factual 17 support to the class action allegations. See ECF Nos. 32 at 7. Plaintiffs’ belief that 18 Defendants’ allegedly unlawful practices have affected at least 100 Washington 19 residents falls short of meeting the numerosity requirement because it is based on 20 mere conjecture. Compare ECF Nos. 14 at ¶ 8.16, with 23 at ¶ 8.16, 24 at ¶ 8.16;

1 see also 7A Fed. Prac. & Proc. Civ. § 1762 (3d ed. 1995). Beyond their 2 speculative guess, Plaintiffs can only point to three individuals who would be class 3 members (i.e., the named class representatives).

4 At this time, however, Plaintiffs’ estimate is insufficient to show that the 5 proposed class is so numerous that joinder of all members is impracticable and, 6 therefore, the numerosity requirement has not been met. Plaintiffs may utilize 7 discovery to determine the number of potential class members.

8 2. Commonality

9 Rule 23(a)(2) requires that “there are questions of law or fact common to the 10 class.” Fed. R. Civ. P. 23(a)(2). For purposes of this rule, “[c]ommonality exists 11 where class members’ situations share a common issue of law or fact, and are 12 sufficiently parallel to insure a vigorous and full presentation of all claims for 13 relief.” Wolin v. Jaguar Land Rover N. Am., LLC, 617 F.3d 1168, 1172 (9th Cir.
14 2010) (internal quotation and citation omitted). At its core, the commonality 15 requirement is designed to ensure that class-wide adjudication will “generate 16 common answers apt to drive the resolution of the litigation.” Wal-Mart, 564 U.S.
17 at 350 (emphasis in original) (internal quotation and citation omitted). “This does 18 not, however, mean that every question of law or fact must be common to the class; 19 all that Rule 23(a)(2) requires is a single significant question of law or fact.” 20 Abdullah v. U.S. Sec. Assoc., Inc., 731 F.3d 952, 957 (9th Cir. 2013) (emphasis in

1 original) (quotation omitted). “The existence of shared legal issues with divergent 2 factual predicates is sufficient, as is a common core of salient facts coupled with 3 disparate legal remedies within the class.” Hanlon v. Chrysler Corp., 150 F.3d
4 1011, 1019 (9th Cir. 1998).

5 However, the fact that each class member’s claim is grounded in an alleged 6 violation of the same statute(s), standing alone, is insufficient to establish 7 commonality. Wal-Mart, 564 U.S. at 350. In addition to being grounded in the 8 same statute, the class claims “must depend upon a common contention[.]” Id.
9 (emphasis added). “That common contention . . . must be of such a nature that it is 10 capable of classwide resolution—which means that determination of its truth or 11 falsity will resolve an issue that is central to the validity of each one of the claims 12 in one stroke.” Id. In other words, the “critical question” under Rule 23(a)(2) is 13 whether the class members’ claims will “stand or fall together.” Conn. Ret. Plans
14 and Trust Funds v. Amgen, Inc., 660 F.3d 1170, 1175 (9th Cir. 2011), aff’d, 568
15 U.S. 455 (2013). Finally, courts must “consider merits questions at the class 16 certification stage only to the extent they are relevant to whether Rule 23 17 requirements have been met.” Torres v. Mercer Canyons Inc., 835 F.3d 1125, 1133 18 (9th Cir. 2016) (citation omitted).

19 Here, Plaintiffs argue that the seminal issues are whether Defendants’ 20 practice of falsely claiming a reason to believe information about the exempt

1 nature of their assets, and misrepresenting cash exemption information, violates the 2 FDCPA and WCPA. ECF No. 32 at 12. Plaintiffs contend that all potential class 3 members were sent the same notice of exemption rights and subject to the same 4 form writ application. Id. Plaintiffs explain that all claims stem from the same 5 conduct by Defendants.

6 Defendant Associated argues that the use of state court forms cannot form 7 the basis of class certification. ECF No. 34 at 5. The Wasson Defendants argue 8 that Plaintiffs cannot show that all members have suffered the same injury, and the 9 FDCPA and WCPA require different evidence for each class member. ECF No. 36 10 at 18. Defendants' arguments miss the mark.

11 The Rule 23(a)(2) analysis centers on whether Plaintiffs' claims and 12 Defendants' defenses can yield a common answer that is "apt to drive the 13 resolution of the litigation." Wal-Mart, 564 U.S. at 351. Importantly, 14 "[c]ommonality requires the plaintiff to demonstrate that class members 'have 15 suffered the same injury[.]'" Id. (quoting Gen. Tel. Co. of Sw. v. Falcon, 457 U.S.
16 147, 161 (1982)). Despite the Wasson Defendants' argument to the contrary, the 17 class members here have all suffered the same injury—they allegedly received 18 false, deceptive, and misleading statements from Defendants, in violation of the 19 FDCPA, and were injured by the unlawful money garnishment or added fees and 20 costs in violation of the FDCPA and the WCPA.

1 Plaintiffs' common contention among class members about Defendants' 2 standardized affirmations concerning members' assets and exemption rights are 3 both pivotal to this action and capable of classwide resolution "in one stroke."
4 Wal-Mart, 564 U.S. at 350. Therefore, common questions of law and fact exist 5 with regard to possible class members, and class members' claims will either 6 "stand or fall together." Amgen, 660 F.3d at 1175. Moreover, the proposed class
7 members need not "share every fact in common." Rodriguez v. Hayes, 591 F.3d 8 1105, 1122 (9th Cir. 2010). Plaintiffs have met the commonality requirement.

9 3. Typicality

10 Rule 23(a)(3) requires that "the claims or defenses of the representative 11 parties [be] typical of the claims or defenses of the class." Fed. R. Civ. P. 23(a)(3).
12 This requirement serves to ensure that "the interest of the named representative 13 aligns with the interests of the class." Wolin, 617 F.3d at 1175. Factors relevant to 14 the typicality inquiry include "whether other members have the same or similar 15 injury, whether the action is based on conduct which is not unique to the named 16 plaintiffs, and whether other class members have been injured by the same course 17 of conduct." Ellis, 657 F.3d at 984 (emphasis added). Stated differently, 18 "[t]ypicality refers to the nature of the claim or defense of the class representative, 19 and not to the specific facts from which it arose or the relief sought." Id.; see also 20 Stearns v. Ticketmaster Corp., 655 F.3d 1013, 1019 (9th Cir. 2011), abrogated on

1 other grounds by Comcast Corp. v. Behrend, 133 S.Ct. 1426 (2013) (“The 2 typicality requirement looks to whether the claims of the class representatives are 3 typical of those of the class, and is satisfied when each class member’s claim arises 4 from the same course of events, and each class member makes similar legal 5 arguments to prove the defendant’s liability.”(brackets omitted)). The typicality 6 requirement requires only that the class representatives’ claims are “reasonably co-7 extensive with those of absent class members; they need not be substantially 8 identical.” Hanlon, 150 F.3d at 1020.

9 Here, the named class representatives’ claims for making false or misleading 10 misrepresentations about the judgment debtors’ assets and exemption rights are 11 typical of the claims of the class. Defendants argue that each class member’s 12 garnishment will be unique and each will have a different debt type, exemption 13 right, income source, and funds. See ECF No. 36 at 19. The Court finds that the 14 typicality requirement is met here because regardless of fact-specific minor 15 differences, each class member will make similar legal argument about the same 16 claims arising from the same course of events. Stearns, 655 F.3d at 1019.

17 Moreover, the class representatives’ claims need not be “substantially identical” to 18 the proposed class members’ claims. Hanlon, 150 F.3d at 1020. Accordingly, the 19 named representatives’ interests in pursuing these claims are properly aligned with 20

1 the interests of the class as a whole. See Wolin, 617 F.3d at 1175. The typicality
2 requirement is met.

3 4. Adequacy of Representation

4 The final prerequisite for class certification is that “the representative parties 5 will fairly and adequately protect the interests of the class.” Fed. R. Civ. P.
6 23(a)(4). This requirement applies to both the named class representatives and to 7 their counsel. “To determine whether named plaintiffs will adequately represent a 8 class, courts must resolve two questions: (1) do the named plaintiffs and their 9 counsel have any conflicts of interest with other class members[;] and (2) will the 10 named plaintiffs and their counsel prosecute the action vigorously on behalf of the 11 class?” Ellis, 657 F.3d at 985 (internal quotations omitted).

12 Here, Plaintiffs request that the Court appoint attorney Kirk D. Miller to act 13 as class counsel. ECF No. 32 at 14. Plaintiffs also assert that the named class 14 representatives and counsel have no interests that are antagonistic to the interests 15 of the class. Id. at 14-15.

16 The Wasson Defendants have raised two objections to the named class 17 representatives’ ability to fairly and adequately represent the interests of the class.
18 First, Defendants assert that the named class representatives lack the standing.
19 Specifically, Defendants suggest that the named representatives have incurred no 20 real injury because either their non-exempt funds were properly garnished or they

1 claimed an exemption and the writ of garnishment was released. ECF No. 36 at 2 20. Defendants also argue that Plaintiffs' statements avowing a lack of conflicting 3 interests and disavowing interests antagonistic to the interests of the class are 4 insufficient. Id.

5 The Court finds the Wasson Defendants' standing arguments unsupported
6 and unpersuasive. See Tourgeman v. Collins Fin. Servs., Inc., 755 F.3d 1109, 1116
7 (9th Cir. 2014) (finding that an individuals' right not to be the target of misleading 8 debt collection communications constitutes a cognizable injury under Article III); 9 see also Havens Realty Corp. v. Coleman, 455 U.S. 363, 373-74 (1982) (finding 10 that pecuniary injury is not necessary to find injury in fact). Moreover, the Court 11 has no reason to believe that there is a conflict of interest between the named 12 representatives and the other members of the proposed class, or that the named 13 representatives will not prosecute this action vigorously. Unless the named 14 representatives' interests undermine his or her incentive to vigorously prosecute 15 the class-wide claims, no conflict arises. See In re Pet Food Product Liab. Litig., 16 629 F.3d 333, 343-45 (3d Cir. 2010). There is simply no reason to believe that 17 such a conflict will develop here.

18 Finally, although Defendants have not objected to counsel's qualifications to 19 serve as class counsel, the Court finds that attorney Kirk D. Miller is competent to 20 represent the entire class. It also appears that Mr. Miller has prior experience with

1 the collection and consumer protection laws applicable to the class claims. See 2 Fed. R. Civ. P. 23(g); ECF No. 33 at ¶¶ 7-18. The adequacy of representation 3 requirement is met.

4 B. Rule 23(b)(3) Requirements

5 Although the Rule 23(a)(2) numerosity requirement is not met, the Court 6 will proceed to examine whether certification is proper under Rule 23(b).
7 Plaintiffs has sought certification of a so-called “damages class” pursuant to Rule 8 23(b)(3). Before certifying such a class, a court must find that (1) “the questions of 9 law or fact common to class members predominate over any questions affecting 10 only individual members;” and (2) “a class action is superior to other available 11 methods for fairly and efficiently adjudicating the controversy.” Fed. R. Civ. P.
12 23(b)(3).

13 1. *Do Common Questions of Law or Fact Predominate?

14 As discussed above, the proposed class claims for Defendants’ alleged false 15 representations about the exempt nature of judgment debtor assets, and 16 communications to putative class members about exemption rights, present 17 common questions of law and fact. For purposes of Rule 23(b)(3), the relevant 18 inquiry is whether these common questions predominate over individualized 19 questions. See Wolin, 617 F.3d at 1172 (“While Rule 23(a)(2) asks whether there 20 are issues common to the class, Rule 23(b)(3) asks whether these common

1 questions predominate.”). Although Rule 23(a)(2) and Rule 23(b)(3) both address 2 commonality, “the 23(b)(3) test is ‘far more demanding,’ and asks ‘whether 3 proposed classes are sufficiently cohesive to warrant adjudication by 4 representation.’” Id. (quoting Amchem Prods., Inc. v. Windsor, 521 U.S. 591, 623-5 24 (1997)).

6 At the outset, the Court easily finds that questions common to the class
7 members’ claims predominate over any potential individualized questions. Rule 8 23(b)(3) refers to questions “common to class members” predominating over 9 questions “affecting only individual members” of the class. Fed. R. Civ. P.
10 23(b)(3). This requires a comparison of common and individual questions arising 11 from the claims being pursued on a class-wide basis. This interpretation is 12 consistent with the purpose of Rule 23(b)(3), which is to determine whether class 13 treatment of claims which satisfy Rule 23(a) is preferable to individualized 14 adjudication. See Zinser v. Accufix Research Inst., Inc., 253 F.3d 1180, 1189 (9th 15 Cir. 2001) (“Implicit in the satisfaction of the predominance test is the notion that 16 the adjudication of common issues will help achieve judicial economy.”). Here, 17 there is little to no question that the class treatment of claims is preferable to 18 individualized adjudication, but the Rule 23(a)(2) numerosity requirement is 19 lacking which precludes class certification at this time. Notwithstanding, the Court 20 finds that Plaintiffs have satisfied Rule 23(b)(3)’s predominance requirement.

1 2. Is Class Adjudication Superior to Individual Actions?

2 In considering whether class adjudication is superior to separate individual 3 actions, a court must determine “whether the objectives of the particular class 4 action procedure will be achieved in the particular case.” Hanlon, 150 F.3d at 5 1023. In making this determination, the court must consider, inter alia, (1) the 6 interests of individual class members in pursuing their claims separately; (2) the 7 extent of any existing litigation concerning the same subject-matter; (3) the 8 desirability of concentrating the litigation in a particular forum; and (4) the 9 feasibility of managing the case as a class action. Fed. R. Civ. P. 23(b)(3)(A)-(D).
10 A court’s consideration of these factors must “focus on the efficiency and economy 11 elements of the class action so that cases allowed under subdivision (b)(3) are 12 those that can be adjudicated most profitably on a representative basis.” Zinser, 13 253 F.3d at 1190 (quotation and citation omitted). In other words, the court must 14 perform “a comparative evaluation of alternative mechanisms of dispute 15 resolution.” Hanlon, 150 F.3d at 1023.

16 In this case, a balancing of the Rule 23(b)(3) factors weighs strongly in favor 17 of adjudication on a class-wide basis. First, it does not appear that members of the 18 proposed class have a significant interest in litigating their claims separately and 19 the nature of the proposed class members (i.e., debtors who have defaulted on 20 unpaid consumer debt) both lend support to class certification. Furthermore,

1 because the value of each individual class member's claims for statutory damages 2 is relatively small, the cost of pursuing these claims individually would likely 3 exceed the value of any potential recovery. See Zinser, 253 F.3d at 1191 (noting 4 that certification is generally proper when class members will be "unable to pursue 5 their claims on an individual basis because the cost of doing so exceeds any 6 recovery they might secure").

7 Moreover, there is no evidence that there exists any other pending litigation 8 concerning the same subject-matter between Defendants and members of the 9 proposed class. As a result, the interests of judicial economy favor proceeding on 10 a class-wide basis. See Zinser, 253 F.3d at 1191 (observing that class-wide 11 adjudication can promote judicial economy by "reducing the possibility of multiple 12 lawsuits" when no other actions are currently pending). Similarly, it appears that 13 the Eastern District of Washington is an appropriate and convenient forum, as all 14 of the events giving rise to the class claims appear to have occurred within this 15 district and no party has proffered arguments to the contrary.

16 Finally, there do not appear to be any impediments to managing this case as 17 a class action. Given that the parties have not suggested any such impediments 18 with respect to the class claims, the Court finds that these can be resolved most 19 efficiently at the same time and in the same proceeding. The superiority factor is 20 also met.

1 CONCLUSION

2 At this time, the Court finds that Plaintiffs' class certification motion does 3 not satisfy the Rule 23(a)(1) numerosity requirement to conditionally certify the 4 class. Accordingly, the Court denies Plaintiffs' motion without prejudice and will 5 revisit the issue should Plaintiffs develop sufficient evidence to support the 6 putative class size.

7 ACCORDINGLY, IT IS HEREBY ORDERED:

- 8 1. Plaintiffs' Motion for Class Certification (ECF No. 32) is DENIED with 9 leave to renew.
- 10 2. The Clerk shall amend the docket to substitute Defendant's true name, 11 Monica Wasson for Jane Doe Wasson.

12 The District Court Executive is directed to enter this Order and provide 13 copies to the parties.

14 DATED May 23, 2017.
